Daytona 200 Weight Procedure

MotoAmerica and the AMA will update the rulebook accordingly, however, the procedure for the Daytona 200 minimum weight limit for the remainder of the event will allow each rider to possess or consume one team provided bottle of water or other hydration fluid. The bottle must only contain the water or other hydration fluid and may not hold more than 16.9 oz. The bottle may not be held during the weighing process, but may be consumed by the rider or used to cool the rider before the weighing process. The team must ensure the bottle is inspected by the technical stewards before given to the rider.

All protests regarding rider weight must be received by the checkered flag of the respective session.
